INTRODUCTION

TO VOL. II.

THE present volume covers the years 1633-1669 — a period that embraces one of the most momentous epochs in the history of England. At the outset — 1633 — that ill-fated monarch, King Charles I., had already entered on his misguided conflict with his Parliament. It was not, however, until the year 1642 that the country was plunged into the horrors of Civil War. So far as these Records go, the "Borough, Town, and Royal Manor" of Salford might have been far remote from, and in happy ignorance of, the bloodshed on the battlefield and on the scaffold; the destruction of ancestral, and often historic homes; and the rapine that, for more than eight years, attended the terrible struggle. But, unlike the proceedings in our present day Council meetings, no Votes of Sympathy, of Congratulations, nor of Thanks were ever passed in the old Portmote Courts. Hence the death of Queen Elizabeth and the accession of King James I. are unnoticed, save by the necessary change of names in the headings of the proceedings of the Court. The tragic death of King Charles I., although Lord of the Manor, is similarly unrecorded.

The Stewardship of the Court appears to have been hereditary in the family of Molyneux, subject of course to the will of the reigning monarch. That Viscount Molyneux abandoned his Stewardship to join the King on the outbreak of the Civil War, in 1642, cannot therefore in the least be wondered at. He was the third of the family named in these Records who had held that office—namely, Sir Richard, Knight and Bart., who died in 1623; Sir Richard, who succeeded in 1622, was created Viscount Molyneux of Maryborough in 1628, and died in 1636; and Richard, Viscount Molyneux of Maryborough, born about 1620 and died 1653. He was succeeded in office as Steward, by one of the local gentry, Mr. Edward Holte, and from 1644 to 1660 the appointments to the Stewardship were made annually and from among gentlemen of the same social rank as that of Mr. Holte. On the Restoration, Caryll, Viscount Molyneux, brother of Richard the second Viscount, was installed as Steward.

The half-yearly roll-call of the Burgesses is one of the most, if not the most, interesting features of these Records. Foremost of the names called were those of the Earls of Derby. William Stanley, the first named in the book was the brother and heir male of Ferdinando Stanley, K.G., Earl of Derby and Sovereign Lord of the Isle of Man, born about 1559 and who until 1588-9 was styled Lord Strange. He died in April, 1594, and was succeeded by his brother William, who inherited the earldom, but not the other honours of the family, as those he had to purchase from his nieces, the daughters of Ferdinando, among them being the Lordship, or Admiralty of the Isle of Man. This honour was confirmed to him on the 7th July, 1609—7th Jac. I.—and ratified by Act of Parliament. He died 29th September, 1642, and like his predecessors, Edward, Henry, and Ferdinando, was buried at Ormskirk. James (Jacobus Comes Derbie), son and heir of William, succeeded to the Earldom. He was born at Knowsley 31st January, 1607, and was M.P. for Liverpool in 1625 and K.B. In the year 1642, that of his succession, he was one of the first to join the King at York. Subsequently he went to the Isle of Man to secure that place for the King, while his heroic Wife sustained the celebrated defence of Lathom House, the siege of which was raised 27th May, 1644. The devotion of this Earl to the King greatly angered the Cromwellian party and while other "delinquents" were permitted to compound for their delinquencies, Parliament on the 24th and 28th August, 1649, Ordered "That the Commissioners at Goldsmiths' Hall be injoined not to make, or proceed in any Composition made, on Behalf of the Earl of Derby: And that the Treasurers of Goldsmiths' Hall be required not to receive any Monies upon any such composition." Taking part in the rising on behalf of the young King (Charles II.) he was severely wounded at the fight in Wigan Lane, 26th August, 1651, and being taken prisoner at the Battle of Worcester, 3rd September, 1651, was beheaded at Bolton, 15th October, 1651. He also was buried at Ormskirk. The next in succession to the unhappy James, was his son and heir Charles, born January, 1628 and died December 1672. He also took part in the rising on behalf of Charles II.

Following immediately the names of the Earls of Derby come those of the Radcliffes. The first (vol. i., 4) is that of the eldest of the five sons of Sir John Radcliffe, who died at Ordsall in February, 1589, and "was buried with his ancestors in the Collegiate Church of Manchester." The year 1598-9 was a terribly calamitous one for the Radcliffes of Ordsall. Sir Alexander, whose death is recorded on page 15, vol. i. (A.D. 1599), was baptized at Manchester in 1573, so that he could not have been more than 26 years of age when he fell in battle in Ireland. His next brother, William (baptized 1577), was slain at Blackwater, in Ireland, fighting against Hugh, Earl of Tyrone. The third son, Sir John, succeeded Sir Alexander as heir to the family estates, and from these records we learn that he was then of the age of 18 years. Out of these five brothers Sir John was the only one who married, and he also perished on the battlefield in the Island of Rhé, 1627. The two younger sons, Thomas and Edward, who could not have been more than boys at the time, were both either slain or died of fever in 1599, while fighting for their Queen in French Flanders.[1] On

[1] In what year Ordsall Hall was erected I cannot say. But so far back as the year 1325 the Hall was occupied by Sir John de Radclyffe Knt, M.P. for the county of Lancaster, who "attended King Edward III. in his wars in France, and was present at the 'sieges' of Caen, Cressie, and Calais." This knight was the son of Robert de Radclyve of Radclyve Tower, the death of this Sir John his son and heir, Sir Alexander, succeeded to the estates (v. vol. i., 232), and among the entries for 27th April, 1631, we find him (i., 235) styled Knight of the Honourable Order of the Bath. Sir Alexander died, apparently, in April, 1654, for we find (ii., 128) that his heirs were excused for non-attendance at the Easter Court on account of his Funeral. The heirs of this Knight cease to appear among the Names of the Burgesses after the 27th April, 1665.

Sheriff of Lancashire, and a direct descendant of "William de Radeclive," who, in 1162, was also Sheriff of the county. Radclyve Tower, near Ratcliffe Bridge, was demolished not many years ago. From the first Sir John, of Ordshall, sprang a long succession of knights, esquires, sheriffs, and members of Parliament, the greater number of whom married daughters of knights, or of great landed gentry, such as the De Traffords, Holands of Hope, Breretons, Harringtons, &c. * * * Margaret, the eldest daughter of Sir John, and sister of Sir Alexander was the favourite Maid of Honour of Queen Elizabeth. She died of grief in 1599, at the early age of 26 years, at the loss of her brothers, all four of whom were slain within the short space of one year. The Queen commanded that Margaret should be buried "as a lady," and interred in St. Margaret's Church, Westminster. Ben Jonson in some pathetic verses addressed to Sir John before that knight's untimely death at Rhé, has immortalised those awful fatalities, and at same time highly eulogised Sir John's many virtues.

At what time the Radclyffes ceased to occupy Ordsall Hall, as their chief residence, I cannot find, but from the death of John in 1669 his successors have styled themselves "of Foxdenton," (or Foxenden) Hall, near Middleton, Lancashire. The present head of the family is Charles James Radclyffe of Foxdenton, and Hyde Manor Dorset, In conclusion, I may mention that William, the second son of Richard de Radclyve, who accompanied Edward I. in his wars in Scotland, became by his marriage the founder of the line of the Earls of Essex and Derwentwater, the last of whom perished on the scaffold at Preston in 1716, for taking up arms on behalf of the Pretender. * * * Captain Robert Radcliffe, who succeeded Sir Alexander, Knight of the Bath, and who was slain in a duel on Bowdon Downs in 1685, lies buried in the Tatton Chapel, Northenden Church.—Extracts from Alderman Mandley's speech in moving a Vote of Thanks to Lord Egerton of Tatton for his restoration of Ordsall Hall, Salford, 6th January, 1897.

The third name on the Burgess roll was from 1598 onward down to the 12th October, 1614:—Edmund Trafford, Esq.—subsequently Knighted (v. i., 43). By the sale of his three messuages "being one burgage lyinge in Salford," (i., 107) Sir Edmund appears to have ceased to be a Burgess, as his name does not occur again in the list after such sale. Although not a Burgess of Salford, Sir Cecil Trafford's name appears in the Constables' Accounts as the recipient of monies paid to him for the "repaire and watch of the Beacons" (ii., 234), "for Souldiers' coats and Conduct," and for the "Armeing and ffurnishinge the Trayne Band" (ii., 235). In "The Court Leet Records of Manchester," Mr. J. P. Earwaker has given so many and such copious notes on the members of the Trafford family, as each of them is named in the entries, that I cannot do better than refer the reader to that work for information on the subject. The same remark is equally applicable in the case of the Mosleys, Lords of the Manor of Manchester. From Nicholas Mosley, Esquire, whose name appears in 1598, and who was Knighted in 1601, down to Sir Edward Mosley, Bart., 1644, this name as that of the Lord of the Manor of Manchester appears at almost every Court holden in Salford. Next in rotation, if not in importance, come the Leighs of High Leigh. George Leigh, Esquire was the cousin and heir of Thomas Leigh (or Legh) of the East Hall, High Legh, near Knutsford, co. Chester, Esq. His son and heir, Robert Legh, predeceased his father, leaving several children of whom George, his son and heir was also heir to his grandfather. "Cousin," we are told by Mr. Earwaker, "in the text means literally consanguineus, or next of kin." In "Lancashire and Cheshire Wills," vol. ii., p. 90, printed by the Chetham Society, Thomas Legh's will dated 29th October, 1589, has been printed. "The arms of Thomas Legh and Isabel Trafford (his wife) were, till quite lately, to be seen in the West window of the chapel at High Legh." George married three times, his third wife being Elizabeth, daughter of Lord Audley. He died at High Legh in March, 1617, and was succeeded by his eldest son Thomas, whose mother was George's first wife, and the daughter and co-heir of Peter Leycester, of Tabley, co. Chester, Esq. He, Thomas, sold his lands in Salford to Humphrey Booth about October 1619, and the Leighs thereby ceased to appear on the Burgess Roll from that date. Another notable name among the leading burgesses is Prestwich. The first recorded is Edmund Prestwiche, Esq., of Hulme Hall, who died in 1598. The Earl of Derby in 1581 was residing, or had recently resided at Aldport (or Allporte) Lodge and in that year he made a grant to this Edmund Prestwich of the Keeper-ship of Aldport Park "near" Manchester, and also of the Lodge. On his death, Edmund, the eldest of his five sons, inherited, presumably, a share of his father's lands in Lancashire and Lincolnshire which were entailed on his sons, but to him there was the following specific bequest: "my cheyne of gould, and all the glasse in every wyndow in the hall, p'lars, (parlours), and chambers belonginge to Hulme Hall, and also all the waynscott and seelinge standinge in every place of the sayd hall, chambers, and p'lars." He died in 1629 and was succeeded by his son and heir Thomas, who was created Baronet in 1644. Sir Thomas was buried 3rd January, 1673-4, and the name of his heir is not given in these Records. It was not until the entries of 16th October 1618 that the Ashtons began to figure among the names of the Burgesses. On page 135, vol. i., we read that: "Raphe Ashton of Great Leavore [Lever] Esq., is departed since the last Court (April 1618), and that Raphe Ashton is his sone and heare [heir], and is at his full age, &c." This Ralph was created Baronet in 1620 and died 18th October, 1644. His son, of the same name, was a man of importance in the County, being High Sheriff and M.P. He lived at Whalley and pulled down the old Abbey Church and Tower there. He died at the age of 73 in 1680. The Ashtons appear to have attended the Court fairly well from 1620 to 1662 when the second Baronet was fined 2s. 6d. for non-attendance, a like sum in 1663, xijd. in 1664, and 5s. in April 1669. One of the most distinguished of the Burgesses was Humphrey Davenport. The first mention of him is on page 19, vol. i., he being fined for "Kepinge a swyne unringed," an offence of which he was subsequently often found guilty. In the records for October, 1614, it is stated: "Mr. Humfray Davemport Esquire hathe purchesed towe (two) messuages beinge on(e) burgage lyeinge in Salford," and on 26th April and 11th October, 1615, it is recorded that he, with others, was excused attendance at the Court. In fact he does not seem to have ever put in an appearance at the Court, probably because he was living in London (v. i., 132) where he was Knighted in 1624. Sir Humphrey Davenport was born about the year 1566 and died in 1645. He was the third son of William Davenport of Bramhall, Cheshire. An able lawyer, he was made Serjeant-at-law on 26th June, 1623, Knighted 17th June, 1624, and made King's Serjeant, May, 1625. In 1630 he became a puisne Judge, in 1631 President of the Court of Exchequer,[1] and in 1632 was placed on the High Commission. On the trial of Hampden (in 1636) for refusing to pay the tax termed Ship-money Sir Humphrey gave judgment in favour of Hampden, but upon a technical point only, and after "elaborately arguing in favour of the impost." He was impeached by the Long Parliament, but the proceedings were allowed to drop. Having joined the King at Oxford he resigned his Office, Sir Richard Lane being appointed his successor in January, 1644, but his patent was not revoked until 1645, the year of his death.

The close relationship between the burgesses of Salford and those of Manchester during the period covered by these transcripts is abundantly shown by a comparison of the names that appear in the respective Court Records. For example, out of about 56 names that appear in the half-yearly roll-calls of the Salford Burgesses, I have not been able to find more than six that do not appear in the Indexes to vols. i. and ii. of the Manchester Court Leet Records. The following are the six names in question: Alred [Aldred], Blamore, Cranage, Higginbotham, Olyf [Olive], and Warmingham. In nearly every case

[1] Exchequer—The letters in the text of the Records—Scerij.—are a contraction of Scaccarij, meaning "of the Exchequer" In the time of our Norman Kings the Royal Treasury was termed Scaccarium, a word taken, it is supposed, from scacchi, Chess. In order to keep the accounts of the Revenue, the receipts were placed in the squares of a chequered cloth on a table in the Court of the Treasury, and counters and tallies (notched sticks) were used to ensure accuracy. This is probably the explanation of the term Exchequer.

the Editor (Mr. J. P. Earwaker), has given the pedigree or sufficient information about the others, and I can only refer the reader to those notes, as my business affairs and municipal duties will not admit of such research as Mr. Earwaker was able to devote to his work. A further illustration of this connection may be seen in the names of the Declarants in "The Protestation of 1641-2." This was a form of declaration—in the drafting of which it is said Pym, Hampden, Falkland, and Selden were concerned—expressing a resolve to "maintain the religion established against Romish innovation, to protect the King's person, the freedom of Parliament, and the rights and liberties of the subject, and to bring to punishment all who should attempt anything to the contrary." A resolution to this effect, and requiring such declaration to be attested by the members of both Houses of the Long Parliament was accepted on the 3rd May, 1641. On the 30th July it was further resolved that such declaration was "fit to be taken by every one that was well affected in religion and to the good of the Commonwealth, and that those who would not take it were unfit to bear office in Church or State." Later on (20th January, 1641-2) an order was made to have this Protestation tendered to all Inhabitants of Parishes, both Householders and others, being of Eighteen Years of age and upwards, to be signed by them, and "to take their Names, both of those that do take it and of those who do refuse." Certificates of such signatures were to be sent to the Knights and Burgesses serving for each County and by them handed to the House. That they had signed this Protestation was the chief reason alleged by the Authorities in Manchester when they refused (26th September, 1642) to comply with the demand of Lord Derby to have his soldiers billeted in the town. Prior to the printing of the names in the Index at the end of these transcripts, the fullest and most reliable list of the Burgesses and Inhabitants of Salford about the year 1640 could be found only by consulting the list of the aforesaid Declarants given in "The Palatine Notebook" (Manchester) iv., 100-111. The whole of the names are there given relating to Salford, Ordsall, Cross Lane, and Oldfield Lane, 337 in number. And wherever possible highly interesting descriptive notes of the individuals are appended. For example, from these Notes we learn that the Cranages were: "A very noticeable family * * George and John subscribed £10 to the Chapel. The will of George Cranage the elder directs his body to be buried in Manchester parish Church, near unto the form whereon he was accustomed to sit." Touching the Widdows, it is remarked that: "It was when looking through the door of Robert Widdows of Salford that Captain Standish, when Lord Strange's troops were besieging Manchester, was killed by a bullet." Similar lists of the Declarants of Broughton, Kersal, and Tetlow are given with the like descriptive notes (iv., 123-5). In the year 1639 the names of "all the able men betwixt 16 and 60 years of age" in Salford were taken and enrolled on parchment (v. the Records, ii., 235). If such rolls be in existence and could be found they would add to the interest of the foregoing.[1]

[1] Humphrey Booth the elder.—Although without a pedigree of any considerable distinction, the founder of Sacred Trinity Chapel and of the wealthiest Charity possessed by the Borough of Salford cannot be passed over without special mention. Probably very few only of the present Burgesses of Salford know anything of the man beyond the connection of his name with that chapel and charity. A perusal of these Records will show, however, that Humphrey Booth the elder for many years took a very active part in the administration of the town's affairs. In the year 1598 his name appears as Constable, an office he also held on another occasion; in 1600 he was an Afferer (elected five times); in 1603 a Miseleyer (elected six times); in 1608 an Overseer for Wedding Dinners; and in 1611 Boroughreeve, a position he held six times (often sitting with the Steward in Court), the last in 1630. Once only (in 1624) he was an Overseer for the Pump. He is said to have been a manufacturer of woollen cloths who prospered greatly in his trade. That he amassed wealth pretty quickly we may infer from the continuous purchases he made of real estate not only in Salford but in Manchester. His first of such purchases in Salford, as herein recorded, was in 1611, and the last in 1624, making altogether eight distinct investments in either Messuages, Tenements, or Lands—mostly in all three (v. i., 81, 99, 107 bis. 142 bis. 167, 183). None of these investments form any portion of the estate belonging to his Charity. In the Manchester Court Leet Records of 1st October, 1606, we read: "The Jurie dothe presente that Humffrey booth hathe purchased three Clos's (closes) of land from Mr. Raphe Hulme * * ." And on the

When we consider the stormy times through which the people at large of England were passing from the assembly of the Long Parliament in November, 1640, to the Restoration of the Monarchy in 1660, 22nd April, 1619, he purchased sundry houses and lands "in ye Mylnegate (Millgate, Manchester) of M^r. Leighe of high leighe and in other places." In the Conveyance of this property Thomas Leigh (of the East Hall) county Chester, Esqre., agrees to convey to M^r. Booth "by fine or otherwise as shall be advised by Humfray Davemport Esqre, or other counsel learned in the law, all those messuages, burgages, lands, &c., in Salford and in Manchester, and in Chorleton Roe, county Lanc., now or late in the several occupations of Charles Howarth" (and 16 others), "to have and to hold to the said Humfrey Booth * * for ever in consideration of the sum of £850. The lands, &c., in Salford were no doubt those mentioned at the Court held 13th October, 1619 (i., 142) for which Mr. Booth had to pay "to his Maties use for his yearly rent ffower shillings." In the same year, and about the same time Mr. Booth bought "One barne and other feeld land of William Standley." This property is in two large blocks, one of which facing Piccadilly is bounded by Port Street, Brewer Street, and the Rochdale Canal; and the other block—of a very irregular shape—extends from Dickinson Street, across Oxford Street, taking in the greater length of Gt. Bridgewater Street. These lands form the "Standley Barn" estate, the name given to the Charity founded by Mr. Booth. In the deed of feoffment dated 18th February 1630 creating this trust, the net revenue from the estate was to be "for ever, yearly, faithfully and wholly disposed of for the succour or relief of such poor aged, needy, or impotent people as for the time being should inhabit or dwell within the town of Salford." The gross yearly revenue at the time of the feoffment was £20, less a certain yearly rent of ten shillings and other reasonable charges, or say but little over £19 per annum. Thanks to the foresight of the founder, who stipulated that the Trustees should "let to farm from year to year, and for no greater term, all the said premises to the best yearly profit thereof," and, notwithstanding that power was got to let on Lease, but not for longer than 99 years, the revenue now is about £17,000 per annum, and as the Leases fall in the income will grow much larger. The founder of the Standley Barn Charity appears to have been well connected and greatly respected in Manchester as well as in Salford. He was Trustee of other Charities, such as "Mayes" (1621) and "Nugent's" (1622—1633), and his name appears in several Inquests held on the estates of deceased local notables. Humphrey Booth the elder died on 23rd July 1635. He was buried at the Manchester Collegiate Church.

it seems to be very remarkable what few changes took place during that period in the government of the Borough of Salford. The excesses at Wedding Dinners had already been suppressed, or it was thought useless to try to suppress them, by the end of 1620, as the Overseers for that purpose cease to be appointed after that year. No other change was made in the appointments of public Officers until the year 1650, when Officers were elected for "Surprising of Robbinge and Geldinge of Coals"; that is, to detect "divers persons" who in bringing loads of coal for sale in the town feloniously disposed of a portion on the way, and then sold the rest as a whole load. In 1665 and 1666 Officers were appointed as Assistants to the Borough-reeve and for Pinning of Swine trespassing, and the various offices, so increased in number, continued and were in existence in 1669. The Presentments of the Constables remained from 1598 pretty much the same in character down to October, 1646, after which they ceased to appear in the Records. Breaking the Assize of Ale and Beer; selling by illicit measures; permitting gaming or tippling on the premises; and harbouring suspicious characters were the chief offences charged against Inn Keepers and Alehouse Keepers.[1] The taking in of "Inmates" and the entertainment of "Strangers" were breaches of the statutory,

[1] Tippling and Drunkenness. These were statutory offences at the time of these Records. "If any Inkep^r., Victl^r., or Alehouse Kep^r. do permit or suffer any p'son or p'sons * * * to remaine and continue drinkinge or tippling in the said Inn Victualling house &c., other than such as be invited by any Traveller he shall lose and forfeit 10s." Jacobi i, cap. 9, 1604. "If any p'son be found drunk he shall forfeit 5s. for each offence, the fine to go to the Poore of the same Parish." And, in order to "restrain the inordinate Haunting and Tipling in Inns, &c., persons * * * so remaining shall lose 3s. 4d." On a second offence of being drunk they were to be "bound over in two securities in one Recognizance of £10 to be thenceforth of Good behaviour," Jac. iv., cap. 5, 1606. For permitting Tippling or Drunkenness an Act was passed in 1609 declaring that "the keepers of such houses so convicted shall be for the space of three years ensuing disabled to keep such houses."

Mem: There was no excise on beer until 1643.

as well as local law, that were prohibited under very severe penalties, and, strange to say, that law was the most relentlessly carried out during the time of the Commonwealth, especially in the case of women being "conceived to bee with child." Happily in England in these days public opinion would not tolerate any such measures to "keep down the rates," nor to protect local industries. In the United States of America poor immigrants are however, still labouring under similar oppression—witness their treatment on landing at any of the ports, even of Boston. Subsequent to 1646 such presentments were made by the Jury, but no doubt these were founded on reports made by the Constables. The Court did not in every case impose the penalty incurred for the offence named, as many of the delinquents were handed over to the High Constables to be dealt with at the Sheriff's Tourn. The Constables had other duties also to perform, such as to see to the enforcement of the demands of the collectors of the various leys and taxes; the purchase and custody of the Fire appliances, the Constables' staves, and the "Bylls" for keeping "Winchester Watch"; "to assess and collect" the rates levied for the repair and maintenance of Salford Bridge; and the custody of the Pound, or Pinfold.

Had the Constables' Accounts been given annually from 1598 to 1669, or even from 1640 to 1660, a much greater light on the condition of things in Salford would have been thrown than is afforded by the ordinary half-yearly Records. For example—it is interesting to know that the Constables received the leys taxed for the repairs of Stanicliff and Windy Bank Bridges and Walton Copp; for King ley, Oxmoney, the maintenance of the Privileges and Immunities of the County, Ship-money, the making of the "Townes Butts," the purchase of Ammunition, armour and weapons for the "Trayne Band," and other purposes. Their disbursements are also instructive, e.g., the payments to Travellers and Strangers "with passes"; for the maintenance of a Child born in gaol; for carrying prisoners to the gaol; for the "repaire and watch of the Beacons"; for the provision of 30 horses and ten carts for his Maties Service; the relief of Soldiers and other Passengers, and for the "disciplining of the generall forces of this Countie and other military affayers." Among such items there appear several sums paid for "Carrying a Creple (cripple) to the powl." In some cases the "creples" were carried on horse-back, in others on a barrow—probably a hand, not a wheel barrow. By the "powl," or pool, I take it that the "Pirle," or "Lady Pearle" spring is meant. In all probability this Spring was the one that gave the name to the Spaw, or Spa, house (shown in the engraving: "South West Prospect of Manchester and Salford," 1710-1730), supposed to have been on the river bank where Stanley Street now is, and where the Lying-in Hospital used to be, and credited, like Holywell in North Wales, and other such places, with miraculous healing property. Unfortunately these Accounts do not go further than 1640, otherwise the receipts and expenditure during the Civil War and the rule of the Commonwealth would have been of great value.

The "Journals of the House of Commons" do not help much to make up for the paucity of the information on local matters to be gleaned from these Records. On the 23rd January, 1648-9, it was enacted that in the matter of:—"Writs, Indictments, and Proceedings in Courts of Justice the Stile shall be changed from the King's name to Authoritate (Auctoritate) Parliamenti Angliæ." An Act for repealing several Clauses and Branches in the Acts of the first year of Queen Elizabeth and the third year of King James was read and passed on the 9th February, 1648-9, and on the 10th of that month a fresh form of Oath "to be taken by every freeman of every City, Borough, and Town Corporate" was ordered, together with an "Act for the administering thereof, and none other, to every Freeman" was passed and ordered to be printed and published. The former Oath of Allegiance, Obedience, and Supremacy was thereby abolished, and it was ordered: "That the Members of this House, of every City and Borough do take care to send them" (copies of the Acts) "down into the several Cities and Boroughs for which they serve."

The Parliament of the Commonwealth lost no time, of course, in confiscating the private property of the Crown and of the Deans and Chapters. The latter were "abolished," (after debates extending from 20th February) on the 27th April, 1649, and it was sought to raise £18,000 per annum out of the improvement of the Impropriations belonging to them. On the 9th March (1648-9) an Order was made to sell the Fee-farm rents of the Crown and Duchy of Lancaster, and on the 18th April, it was ordered that "Money be raised on the security of the Parks, Houses, Manors, Lands, and Farms of the late King—such property to be settled on Trustees with Powers for the speedy selling thereof. What was the effect of such measures on the Royal Manor of Salford these Records do not show.

Under the Acts of 1, 23, and 35 of Elizabeth and 1 James persons were punished for not going to their Parish Church. These Acts were repealed 29th June, 1649. Another Act passed 12th September, 1649 would probably be less popular in Salford: No Ale or Beer was to be brewed for sale above 10s. the barrel besides the excise. If it be true that the celebrated Proclamation made by King James I. on the 24th May, 1618, and which came to be known as the "Book of Sports," was intended for Lancashire only, it may be asked: "What were the games and pastimes of the people of Salford down to the year 1643?" Dancing, archery, leaping, vaulting, May games, Whitsun Ales, Morris-dancing, the setting up of May poles and carrying on the usual sports therewith, even on Sundays after service, were not only legalized, but ordered to be recommended from the pulpit. Bear and Bull baiting, and also Bowling, were, however, prohibited on Sundays. The Puritans, of course, strongly denounced the Declaration of King James I., and which King Charles had ratified 18th October, 1633, the result being that in 1643 it was ordered by Parliament that the Book of Sports should be burned by the common hangman in various public places. With the exception of two entries for "illegal bowlinge on the Saboath day," (i., 38, ii., 51) and four "for mackinge the butts for the towen" (Archery Butts, ii., 231, 233, 235, 239) there is nothing to show that such sports or games were indulged in. Footebale (foot-ball) and Catt's pallett (tip-cat) against which games played in the streets there was a great outcry in Manchester, do not seem to have troubled the residents in Salford. No mention is made of a Maypole in the Borough, so that it is probable the people went to "Pendilton Pow" and danced on the green there.

The Charter of Salford. No mention of that highly important, and indeed most precious document is made until October 1644 (ii., 77); but from that date the safe custody of the Deed was most carefully guarded, the entries relating thereto being very frequent, as will be seen from the Index. No doubt this vigilance was aroused through the Boroughreeve elected in 1641, Mr. Henry Wrigley, having lost or mislaid it, and was not able to hand over the document to his successor in office, Mr. Adam Pilkington, until after the time he ought to have brought it into Court. On page 158, vol. ii. (1656) it will be seen that an order was made that the Charter "shalbee Translated into English for the good and benefitt of the Burgesses and Inhabitants of this Towne." No record appears, however, that such order was ever carried out.

That Salford did not escape the Pestilence, or Plague, that so grievously afflicted Manchester in 1605 and 1646 we learn from the entries vol. i., page 47 and vol. ii., pages 98, 106. The latter show that on the return of the inhabitants to their homes, when the sickness had passed away or subsided, certain of the Constables (Thomas Wooffended to wit) had exacted fines for their absence as "Mulct money." Such fines they were, however, ordered to repay to those from whom they had been illegally demanded. The order relating to the "Winchester Watch," vol. ii., page 86 (October, 1646)—that "the watch shall go by the Byll" (Halberd) "from doore to doore as formerly it hathe done," smacks of the times of Shakespeare, but it is to be hoped that there were no Dogberrys nor Verges in the Salford Watch. Another order of the Court may prove interesting, namely, that forbidding under a severe penalty any of the Jury from Revealing or Uttering "any secret or speech amongst them delivered being together" vol. i., page 195 et seq. The Taxation of Broughton, Kersall, and part of Tetlow towards the relief of the Poor in Salford, vol. ii., page 217, may interest others. The only entry bearing on the Siege of Manchester in 1642 is the presentment of Edward Rosterne "for makinge an affray on the Bridge with the Souldiers that kept the Bridge there"—vol. ii., page 77. The diversion of a sum of money (29s.), raised for "the releefe of poor Protestants behynde seas" towards the cost of binding an apprentice, and to aid his sister in her need, both being without father or mother, seems, in these days, however creditable in one sense, an arbitrary act on the part of the Jury.

The River Irwell Issue. I have not yet been able to locate this spot; but from the text (i., 27) I imagine that it was where the young fry of fish were impounded before being permitted to enter the Irwell.

The publication of this Transcript, notwithstanding its imperfections (some due to an accidental misplacement of a dot, as in ni for in) will be a boon to those Antiquaries who do not expect absolute perfection in such work, as it will supply a want that has been long felt. A Writer in "The Palatine Note-Book," vol. i., page 100, says: "It may be averred of Salford in respect of its annals that it is peculiarly unhappy. It has done little to foster a local spirit by making an adequate record of its history." A little further on the Writer himself shows the reason for this seeming apathy; he says: "The Books of the Port-Moot Court are not available; and there are no contemporary parish registers. We have therefore to fall back on incidental references in Wills and other documents." Why, it may be asked, were the Books of the Port-Moot Court not available? The remarks quoted above were published in July, 1884, and may have been seen by the Archdeacon who had, improperly, possession of the book transcribed herein. He at least made no sign, and it was more by good luck than care on his part that this treasure escaped falling into the hands of the paper-makers. May not the volumes still missing be in the hands of borrowers who have forgotten to return them? The Charter itself has been "lost" several times, but it is now in a handsome glazed frame hung on the wall of the Reading-room at Peel Park Reference Library. It may be, eventually, burnt or stolen, but it cannot be borrowed to take away.

The Jurie aforesaid by the informaĉon of Adam Warmingham and Robert Braban Constables of Salford do p9sent Richard Otiwell and Robert Barlowe for fightinge the xiijth of Julie 1646 and drawinge bloud either on the other. Ideo uterqe eoř in m'ia (etc.) . . . . . iijs. iiijd.

Item the Jury by the informaĉon of the said Constables do present Henry Beck and his wife and Roƀt Widowes and James Widowes for wrangling in the streets and Henry Beck had bloud drawne on his face September the xixth 1646. Ideo quiliƀt eoř (etc.) . . . . . xijd.

Item the Jurie by the informaĉon of the said Constables do p9sent John Kirshawe ałs Rawson his wife and Robert Hollins his wife did breake John Kirshaws wifes head that it bled October the xijth 1646. Ideo uterqe (etc.) . . xijd.

Item the Jurie (by the informaĉon of Henry Wharmby and ffrancis Dutton Skavengers for the Greengate and Gravelhole) doe p9sent Henry Wharmbie for not keepinge his street cleane before his dore and for denying to go about with the said ffrancis when he was called on by him. Ideo ip'e in mia (etc) iiijd., and ffrancis Dutton for not sweepinge before his dore. Ideo (etc.) iiijd.

Item the Jury by the informac̃on of Thomas Widowes and Charles Nuttall Scavengers for the Lowergate do p⁹sent theise psons followinge:—Amy Rylands for not cawsinge her street to bee made cleane before her barne in Salforde. Ideo (etc.) vj$^{d.}$; John Key for not makinge cleane his street before his shopp. Ideo (etc.) iiij$^{d.}$; Edmund Hollins for not pavinge his street before his howse. Ideo (etc.) xij$^{d.}$; M$^{rs.}$ Radcliffe for not pavinge before her howse not havinge a Tenant. Ideo (etc.) xij$^{d.}$

Item the Jury by the informac̃on of John Hulton and Adam Siddall Overseers for Muslinge of Mastive Doggs Mastive Bitches and Mungrills do p⁹sent theise p⁹sons followinge:—George Cranage, Thomas Wooffenden, and John Clarke for suffringe their doggs to go unmusled. Ideo quilib̃t (etc.) . . . . . iij$^{d.}$

The Jurie * * by the informac̃on of Thomas Radcliffe and John Clarke Alefounders do p⁹sent theise persons followinge for breakinge the Assize of Ale and Beere:—Richard Worrall, Ellen Barlowe widowe, William Tildsley, John Makan, Jeremy Platt, George Parcyvall, Thomas Hollins, Samuel Parcyvall, John Cookson, Thomas Worrall, Thomas Doodson, John Rawson, Adam Travis, John Ashton, John Bradford, John Bradshawe, Ric̃us Bowker, William Cowsey, Elizabeth Travis widowe, George Browninge, Elizabeth ffidler, John Clarke. Ideo quilib̃t eor̃ (etc.) . . . . . iij$^{d.}$

The Jury by the informac̃on of Thomas Doodson, John Makan, John Leach, and Robert Widowes Bilamen do p⁹sent theise persons followinge for not yokeinge and ringinge their swyne, viz.:—[Alexander Hopwood, James Kelsawe, John Cason,

George Redford, and 18 others, all old offenders = 22, fined.]
Ideo quilibt eor in m'ia (etc.) put patet sup ordinem sequen
. . . . . vs.

Item the Jurie * * do finde that Robert Cowper and George Scoales are deceased since the last Leet Court, and their sonns and heires are both under age.

Item the Jurie do find that William Sunderland hath purchased since the last Leet of John Bowker two litle Closes and one howse all within Salford wch were formerly the lands of Doctor Williamson and hee is to rent (sic) to his Matie yearly iijs. vjd. as wee are informed by Mr. Humfrey Booth who was last occupant of that land and saith hee paid the same rent. Jur ad fidelitatem.

Item the Jury doth finde that Thomas Hartley of the Mosside hath purchased one dwellinge howse of Richard Bury and hee is to pay the yearly rent of Two pence to his Matie wch howse is in the Greengate in the occupacon of Widowe Smith. Jur ad fidelitatem.

Whereas the Burlamen for this last yeare past haue delivered in a p9sentment of certeyne persons that have kept swyne contrary to many former orders heretofore made at this Leet and no redresse hitherto hath beene obteyned. This present Jurie doth therefore order that ffive shillings for every swyne shalbee levyed of the goods of all such parties as are p9sented at this Leete beinge the xiiijth of October 1646 and the said Jury doth appoynt Adam Kirshawe and John Leach junior to drive and impound all such swyne as they shall finde going abroad in the streets untill they have paid accordinge to a former order v^s.^ a peece, out of which v^s.^ the Officers are to have vj^d.^ a peece out of every swyne that is impounded and the rest to be disposed on accordinge to a former order.

Item the Jury doth find that the heires of Mr. Thomas Keley are deceased and who are the right heires for the p^9^sent they know not.

Item the Jurie doe finde that Mr. Edmund Gee is deceased and who are right heires to his land in Salford they know not.

non est factum.

Item the Jury do find that Thomas Wooffenden was chosen the last Leet one of the Affairers of the Leet Court in Salford and Robert Ridge was his ffellowe and havinge not ꝑformed their office and not knowinge what damage may ensue to his Matie in losses through their defalt and they not rendringe any lawfull excuse why they did not ꝑforme their office the Jury do therefore fyne them in ffive pounds joyntly and severally.

non est factum.

Whereas there hath been complaynt made to this Jurie that those wch bringe Milk to the Towne to sell and do not sell it by true measures as quarts, pints, and gills. It is therefore ordered that William Bradshawe and Miles Gatherne shall give them warninge to sell their milk by lawfull measures, or els if they shall finde them hereafter faultie it shalbee lawfull for the said William Bradshawe and Miles Gatherne or either of them to take their milk from them and give it to the Poore.

Item the Jury * * do order, that the Constables chosen for this yeare to come shall buy two Bills on the Townes charges for to keep Winchester Watch with accordinge to former custome and that the watch shall go by the Bill from doore to doore as formerly it hath done.

Item the Jury doe finde that Phillipp Stampe and William Suary have been lately Constables in their seuerall yeares and haue not accordinge to a former order made delivered up their accompts to their succeedinge Constables for wch defalt the Jury do fyne them in xxs. a peece and do further order that they aforesaid parties with the Constables now last in beinge shall deliver up their accompts to the Constables nowe chosen and all such moneys as shalbee in their hands before the xiiijth day of November next, sub pena euery one of them the sume of vls. ffactum est.

Item the Jury * * do order, that all such Burgesses as have not appeared at this Leet shall every one pay vs. a peece and all such Inhabitants as haue not appeared shalbee fyned according to the discrecon of the Affairers.

Item the Jury do find that Roger Olive is deceased and Adam Warmingham is come in to do his suit and service and is right heire to Roger Olives lands and is to pay to his Matie yearlie xijd. Jur̃ ad fidelitatem.

Item the Jurie do order, that all such Constables as have not made appearance at this Court Leet their seurall Townes and Towneshipps shalbee amercyed in iijs. iiijd. a Towneshipp.

Item the Jury do find that Edmund Hollins and John Radcliffe have been p°sented seuerall tymes for not repairinge their pavements against their howses and do order that if they bee not repaired within this moneth they are to pay either of them xs. a peece.

Item the Jurie do order that all good orders formerly made shall stand and bee in force.
